

BeachPeople Disclaimer

Last Updated 31st July 2020

Outdoor Sports can be dangerous even when everything is done correctly.

Litigation culture being what it is it's unfortunately necessary for you to state that you are fully and solely responsible for yourself, your equipment and your actions on all BeachPeople events – that's what this form is for.

In order to partake in any Club event, you confirm that:

1. You are an adult and that you are mentally and physically fit to participate and without injury or impediment
2. You are fit enough to run the distance of 200m on soft sand, swim the same distance back and climb into a rescue boat
3. You have read the warning above and accept that you accept all risks for your own safety
4. You have the appropriate individual insurance for any activity that you chose to take part in
5. You agree that unless otherwise stated, all BeachPeople events operate on a 'Group of Friends' basis and that the Club itself is simply an online service that allows its members to arrange events
6. You absolve BeachPeople and its members from any responsibility for your safety and accept that any advice given to you by anyone in the Club is on a 'best endeavours' basis and the does not imply any responsibility for the outcome should you follow it
7. You are able to make your own decisions when it comes to your safety and how your actions may affect the safety of others, including but not limited to knowing your own limitations, familiarity with your equipment and knowledge of prevailing tide & weather conditions and forecasts
8. You understand about the importance of the correct clothing to prevent cold shock due to sudden immersion, hypothermia due to exposure, sunburn, sunstroke, windchill etc.
9. You understand that BeachPeople will use this form as evidence that you are capable and competent to participate
10. You warrant that all information provided to the club is true and correct and that this agreement has not been amended
